

REACHECK News:
REACHECK Solutions GmbH will become asseso AG in June 2018

Dear REACHECK Customer,

New company structure beginning in June 2018

Today I am turning to you on our own behalf and not in the form of the newsletters to which you have become accustomed. Today, I would like very much to inform you personally that REACHECK Solutions GmbH will be turning over a significant part of its operational activities to asseso AG (stock corporation) in June 2018.

No, REACHECK has not been sold, nor have we bought another company in the market. We also have no reason to reinvent ourselves. Rather, the new company structure is our response to changing conditions. We are restructuring ourselves so that we will be able to work for you as smoothly and efficiently as possible in the future, as we have done in the past.

The new company is the result of intensive deliberations, visionary workshops and many used up flip chart pages. The path to the new company was not always straight and sometimes we wished we were already there. Now we are ready to start with asseso AG. Asseso is both the goal of our vision and the point of departure for new entrepreneurial activities and developments.

Why is asseso a stock corporation?

This new orientation is not only supported by our entire team, they have actually also helped to design it. Consequently, asseso will be a stock corporation even though this form is rather unusual for a company of our size. Employees who are fully committed and think in terms of the company's future can, indeed ought, to have a chance to become integral parts and co-owners of the company.

Thus in the month of June 2018, we shall start with a new name, a new company structure and a new corporate design. As for you, nothing much will change. As before, you will be able to reach us at the same address and telephone numbers, and the same proven team will see to it that you receive comprehensive, competent advice.

You are being told first!

With that, I close the first and last issue of REACHECK News in the year 2018. Here, we have always kept you up to date on important internal matters of REACHECK Solutions GmbH.

Next time we shall inform you in June 2018 of all further developments under the name "asseso". You, our customers and market partners, will be the first to hear about when, exactly, the changeover will take place.

Until then, please do not hesitate to ask us any questions you may have.

Cordially yours,

Dipl.-Ing. Stefan Oehrlein
Managing director
